KPFK PODCASTS

A GUIDE FOR MANAGERS AND STAFF · OCTOBER 2026

podcasts.kpfk.org puts every program on KPFK's schedule on the web: play any episode, listen live, search what was said and read along with the transcript, on a phone, a tablet or a computer. Nothing to install, no account, no sign-in. Behind it, the station has a private studio for its figures, its settings and its fund drives.

106
programs, everything on KPFK's published schedule plus its podcasts

1,093
episodes ready to play today, each with its own link

1 tap
to KPFK live, from kpfk.org or anywhere the link is shared accounts, ads or trackers. The station counts plays, never who Figures read from the live site on 27 October 2026.

0

1

For listeners

Programs and the player, the new Listen Live page, read-along transcripts, search and the schedule.

2

For station staff

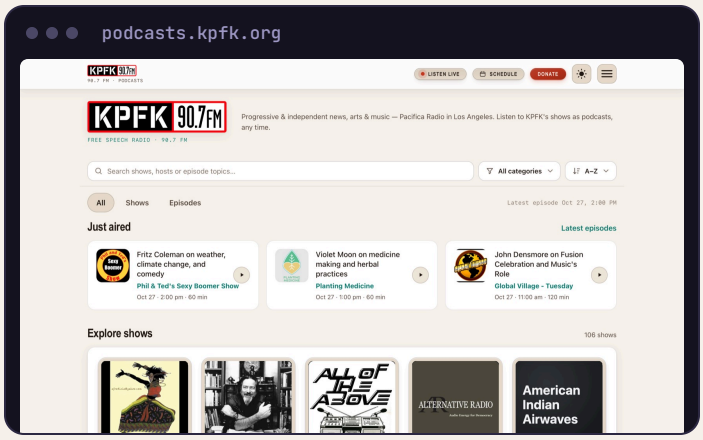

The studio: figures, reports, settings, and the new fund drive controls.

3

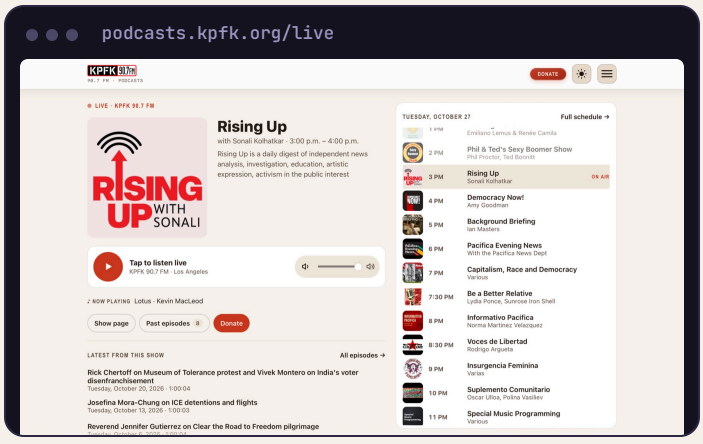

How it works

Where the programs come from, what happens after each broadcast, privacy, and what's next.

> "Every program KPFK airs, on every screen, with the words that were said."
>
> The idea behind the site

THE HOME PAGE · COMPUTER, LIGHT

LISTEN LIVE · COMPUTER, LIGHT

PART ONE

1 FOR LISTENERS

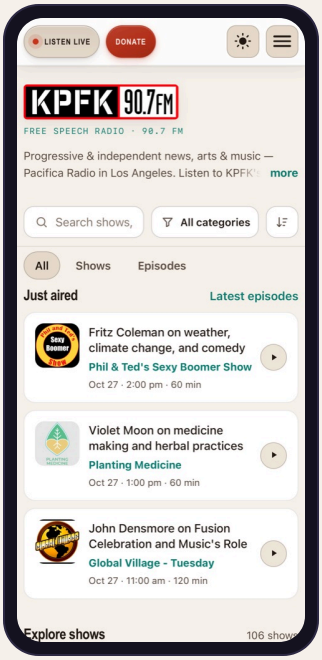

What anyone opening podcasts.kpfk.org can do.

NO TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE NEEDED

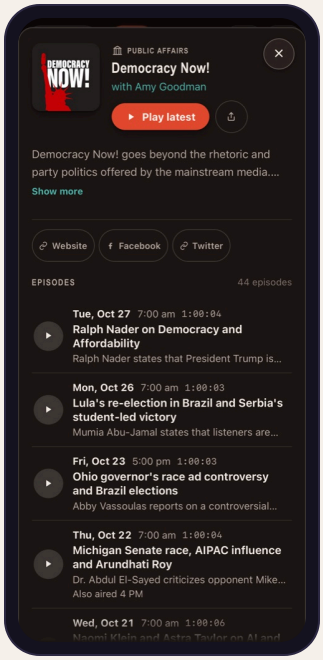

Every program, one tap away

The home page shows what just aired and every program with its artwork, host and latest broadcast. Listeners sort A to Z, by most recent, or by category: News, Public Affairs, Arts & Culture, Health, Music, En Español.

- Each program has its own page: description, links, and every episode, newest first, each with its own headline and summary.
- Every episode has a link. Shared in Messages, WhatsApp or Facebook it shows the program's artwork and the episode's headline, and opens here for anyone.
- A program without artwork gets a clean card with its name, instead of a stand-in logo.

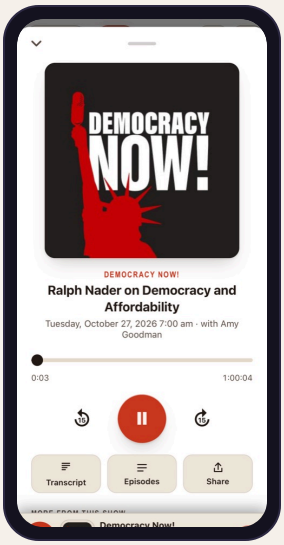

HOME · LIGHT

A PROGRAM · DARK

The player stays with you

One tap plays an episode. The player sits at the bottom of the screen while listeners keep browsing, and remembers where each listener stopped, so a long show picks up where it was left, without an account.

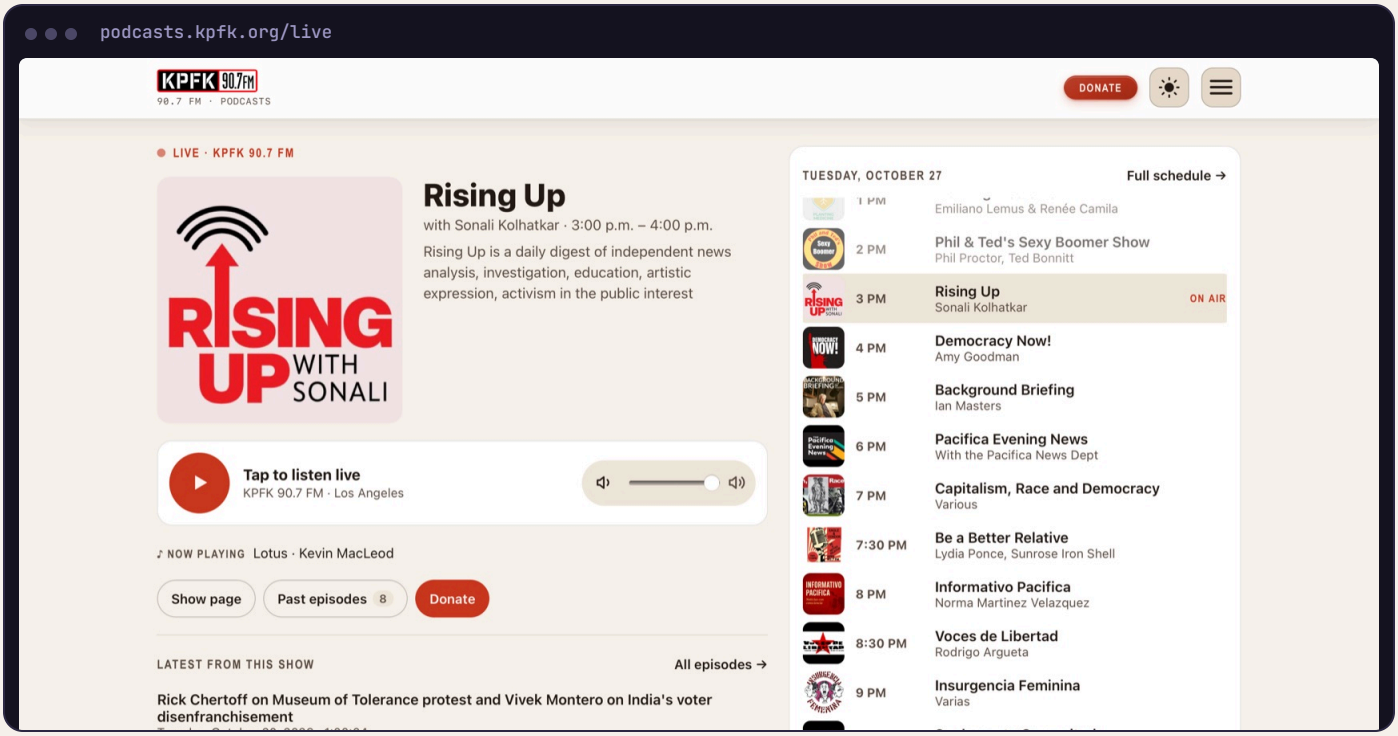

NOW PLAYING · LIGHT

LIGHT AND DARK

The site follows the device's own light or dark setting, and has a switch for those who want the other.

Listen Live: KPFK's live player, at its own address NEW podcasts.kpfk.org/live replaces the old kpfk.org player. kpfk.org's Listen Live buttons can point straight at it, and the address can be shared anywhere.

LISTEN LIVE ON A COMPUTER · LIGHT · AS IT FIRST OPENS IN SAFARI

ON A PHONE · DARK

ONE CLICK TO AUDIO

It starts playing as it opens. Where a browser blocks that (Safari usually does), the only thing in the way is one large Play button.

WHAT'S ON NOW

The program on air, its host, times and description, the song playing, and the latest episodes of the show. It moves on by itself at the top of the hour.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

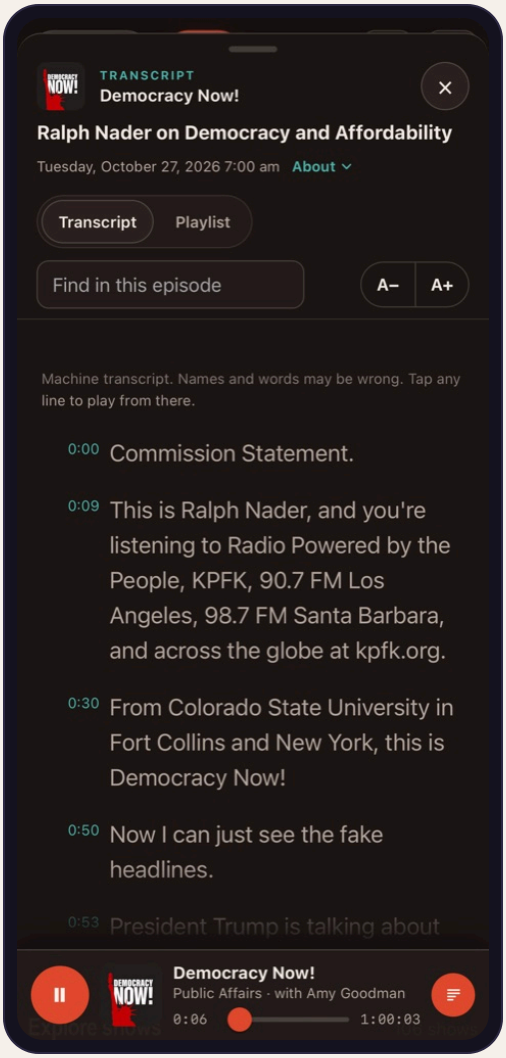

From KPFK's own published schedule, with the program on air marked. On a phone: the next two programs.

CALL, GIVE, GET THE APP

The studio call-in line, the office line, the station's signals, Donate, and on phones a link to the KPFK app.

LIVE THINGS ONLY

A show, an episode or the full schedule opens on the main podcast site, and the live stream carries on in the player at the bottom. Everything stays in one window, so nobody loses their way on a phone.

TRANSCRIPT, AS IT PLAYS · DARK

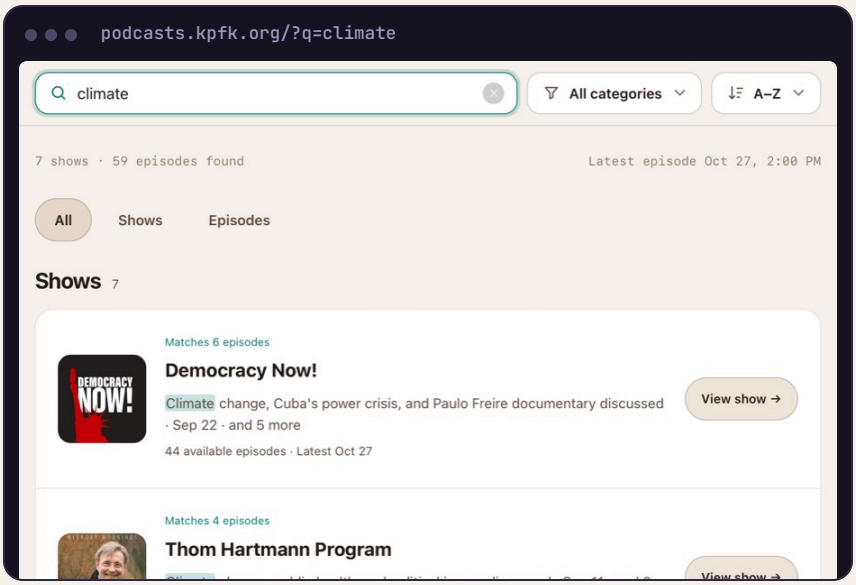

Listen along: the transcript, as it plays

The transcript scrolls with the broadcast, the line being spoken highlighted. Listeners tap any line to jump there, search within the episode, and make the text larger or smaller. For music programs, Playlist shows the station's logged songs the same way.

Valuable for people who are deaf or hard of hearing, for following a fast conversation, and for finding a quote.

Search that shows why it matched

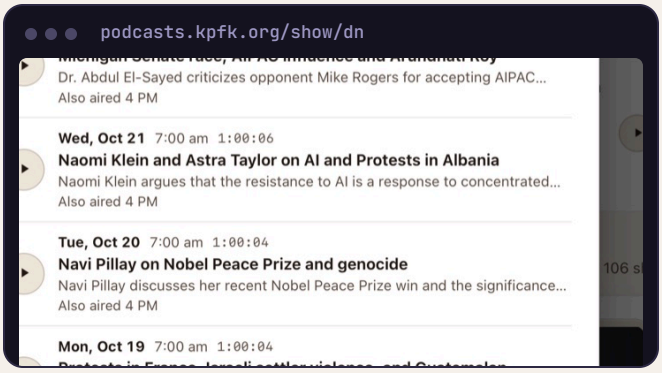

One search covers program names, hosts, and every episode's headline and summary. Best matches come first, and every result shows the words that matched. Searching "climate" finds 7 programs and 59 episodes, grouped by program.

SEARCH ON A TABLET · LIGHT

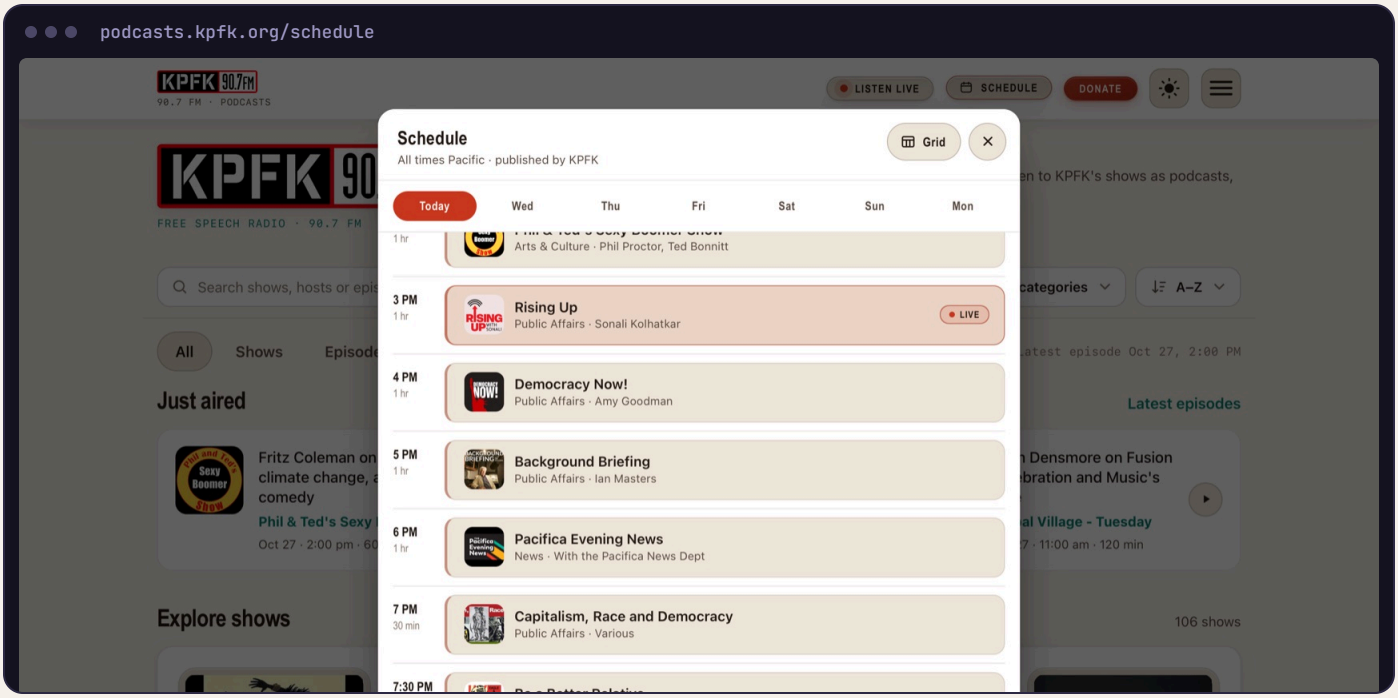

Re-runs listed once NEW

Many programs air twice a day. The site recognises a repeat by what was said, not by its title, so each broadcast is listed once, with a note such as "Also aired 4 PM". Links to the repeat still open the right episode. 75 repeats are folded in this way today.

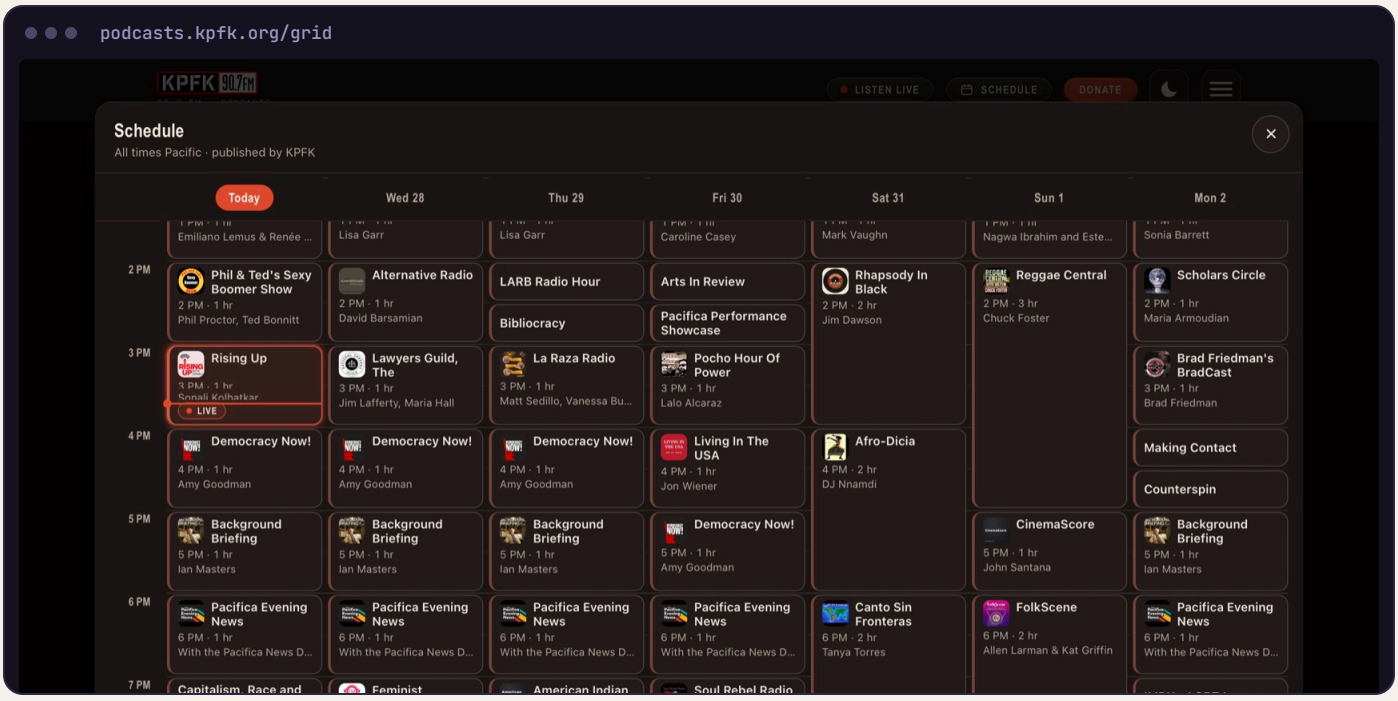

The schedule, and a week at a glance

The schedule shows the next seven days as KPFK publishes them, today first, with the program on the air right now marked Live. Tap any program to see its page. On a computer, the Grid button lays the whole week out side by side, like a printed program guide.

THE SCHEDULE · LIGHT

THE WHOLE WEEK · DARK

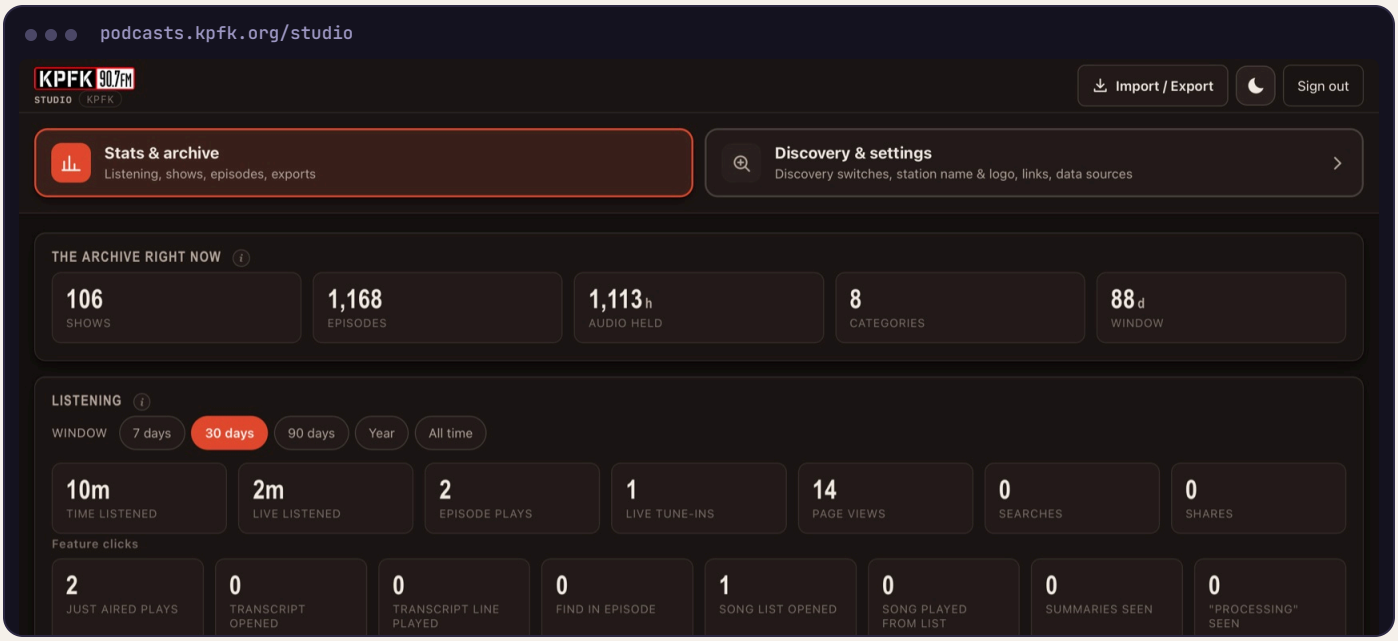

PART TWO

2 FOR STATION STAFF

The studio: what the station sees, and what it controls.

STATION MANAGERS · DEVELOPMENT · STAFF

Staff sign in at podcasts.kpfk.org/studio with the station's studio password. It is a private dashboard: listeners never see it, and nothing in it can change what is on the air.

THE DASHBOARD · DARK · EXAMPLE FIGURES FROM A TEST COPY

LISTENING AND THE ARCHIVE

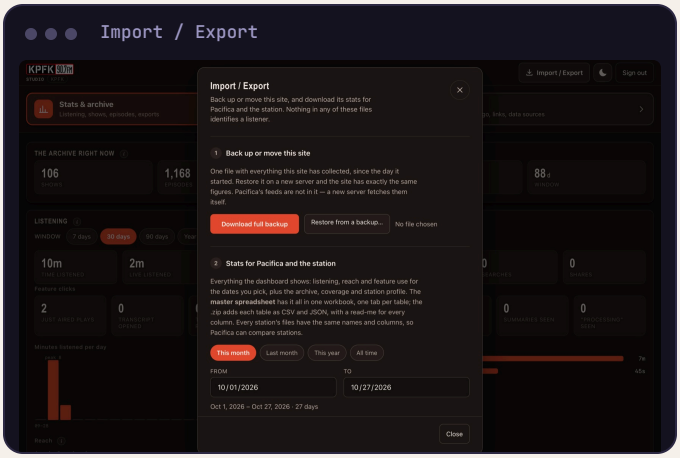

Programs, episodes and hours of audio; time listened, live listening, episode plays, page views and searches for any period; the most listened programs; problems in Pacifica's feed flagged for staff.

IMPORT / EXPORT

A spreadsheet or files for any span of dates, with the same names and columns for every station, so Pacifica can add stations together. One file also backs up or moves the whole site.

A PRINTABLE REPORT

For a board meeting or a funder: listening and the archive for any period, ready to print or save as a PDF.

IMPORT / EXPORT · DARK

SETTINGS, NO TECHNICAL CHANGE

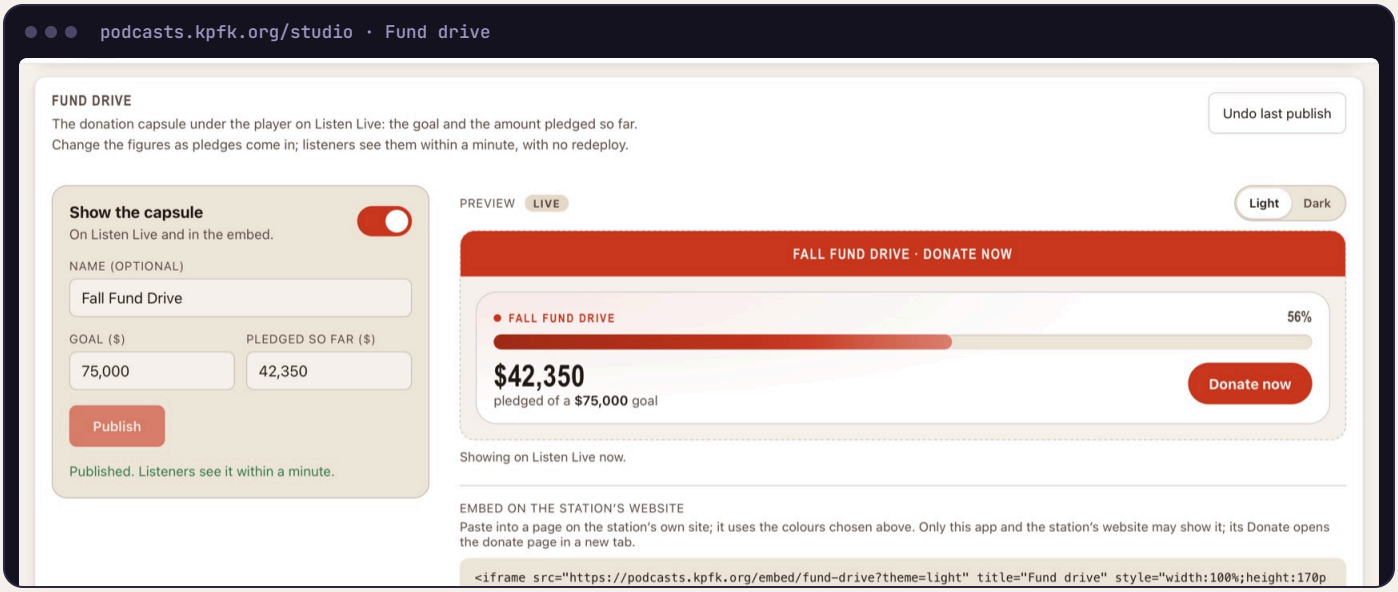

Staff switch transcripts and summaries on or off for listeners, and edit what listeners see of the station: name, logo, side-menu links and social accounts, with a review step and undo.

NOTHING IDENTIFIES A LISTENER

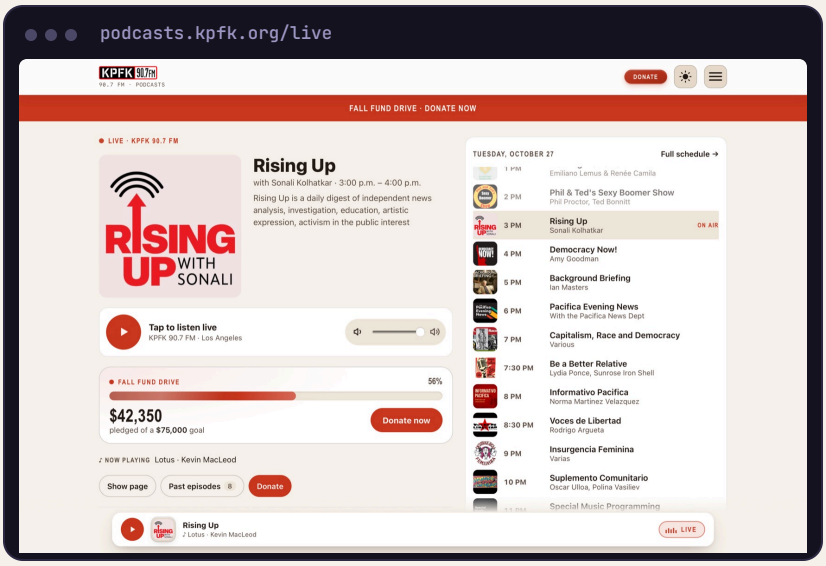

Every figure is a count. No file, report or screen in the studio says who listened.

Fund drives, from the studio NEW

During a drive, staff switch it on in the studio and keep the amount pledged up to date. Listeners see a red fund drive banner across Listen Live and a progress capsule under the player, which updates by itself about once a minute. No technical change, no waiting.

THE STUDIO'S FUND DRIVE CARD · LIGHT · EXAMPLE FIGURES

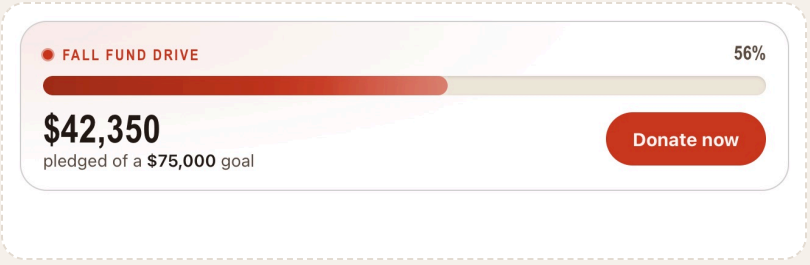

LISTEN LIVE DURING A DRIVE · EXAMPLE FIGURES

Running a drive

1. Switch the capsule on, give the drive a name and a goal.
2. Check the preview, in light or dark, and Publish.
3. Update "Pledged so far" as the totals come in.
4. Switch it off when the drive ends. Undo puts back the last version.

ON KPFK.ORG TOO

The same capsule can sit on the station's own website: the studio gives a short snippet to paste. Only kpfk.org and the podcast site may show it.

THE CAPSULE AS IT APPEARS ON KPFK.ORG · EXAMPLE FIGURES

PART THREE

3 HOW IT WORKS

Where the programs come from, and what happens after every broadcast.

FOR ANYONE WHO WANTS THE DETAIL

It runs on its own

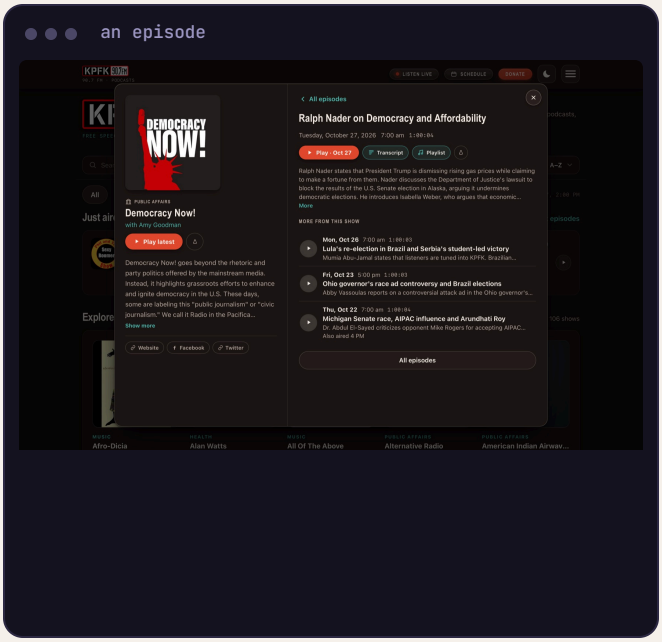

The site reads Pacifica's own archive and schedule. When a program airs and is archived, it appears by itself, with no extra work for station staff.

KPFK airs a program, on the published schedule › Pacifica's archive records it and lists it › Transcript service listens to the recording › podcasts.kpfk.org headline, summary, guests and the full transcript

From a date to a story

Without it, an episode is just "Democracy Now! · Oct 27". With it, the same episode reads "Ralph Nader on Democracy and Affordability", with a short summary of what was said. It happens a few hours after each program airs, in English and Spanish. Where the station has written its own description, that always comes first.

- Time markers on every line, so a tap plays from that moment.
- Honest labels. All of this is machine-made and marked so: "names and words may be wrong".
- Repeats recognised from what was said, so each broadcast is listed once.

AN EPISODE WITH ITS HEADLINE AND SUMMARY · DARK

The station's rules

THE SCHEDULE DECIDES

Every program on KPFK's published schedule, plus its podcasts. Programs that leave the schedule leave the site; music programs stay for 14 days.

RIGHTS AND CORRECTIONS

A program the station has no on-demand rights to is held back everywhere. Failed recordings are hidden and wrong lengths corrected automatically.

PRIVACY FIRST

No accounts, tracking cookies or ads. The station counts plays, listening time and page views with no identifier of any kind, and never the words people search for.

One archive: the website and the app

The KPFK Podcasts app for iPhone, iPad and Android reads this site's archive, so a fix or a new program here reaches the app too, and every Share in the app opens here.

Built for every Pacifica station

Everything station-specific (name, logo, feeds, stream, links, contacts) lives in one settings file and the studio. A sister station's archive can power its own copy of this site, with its own fund drives, without building anything new.

Where it stands

ITEM	STATUS
podcasts.kpfk.org	Live since September 2026
Listen Live page	Live since 27 October 2026, ready for kpfk.org's Listen Live buttons
Fund drive controls	Live since 27 October 2026: banner, capsule and the kpfk.org embed
Checks	About 250 automatic tests, plus browser tests that tap through the pages like a listener, on phone and computer, light and dark. Every change is checked on the live site after it goes up.

What's next

CONTACTS AND A FOOTER

Staff edit the station's phone lines, email and wording in the studio; a footer on every page.

MORE FOR FUND DRIVES

Start and end dates that switch a drive on and off, and a check that the donate page opens correctly.

CHAPTERS AND SKIP TO THE SHOW

Jump past the opening and between segments of a long program.

HOLD BACK FROM THE STUDIO

Hold back a program or one episode, for rights or a bad recording, without a technical change.

QUESTIONS

Paul runs the site day to day; Ace Estwick is the general manager. Ask either of them for studio access, or for this guide's figures.

> "Every program KPFK airs, on every screen, with the words that were said."
>
> KPFK Podcasts · podcasts.kpfk.org